About Me

Hi, I'm Preet Baranawal — a motivated student focusing on Computer Science and Engineering. I enjoy building web projects and learning practical programming skills that help me solve real problems.

I prefer hands-on, practical work and often learn by building small projects in HTML/CSS and Python. I aim to get strong internship experience and a high-paying technical role after graduation.

My strengths include problem solving, curiosity for new technologies, and a drive for continuous improvement.

Outside coding I like reading technical blogs, solving algorithm problems, and contributing to small open-source projects.
